

"When we went forth into the waters of baptism and covenanted with our Father in Heaven to serve Him and keep His commandments, He bound Himself also by covenant to us that He would never desert us, never leave us to ourselves, never forget us, that in the midst of trials and hardships, when everything was arrayed against us. He would be near unto us and would sustain us. That was His covenant, and...we can tie to the promises that He has made."

-George Q. Cannon

"When we went forth into the waters of baptism and covenanted with our Father in Heaven to serve Him and keep His commandments, He bound Himself also by covenant to us that He would never desert us, never leave us to ourselves, never forget us, that in the midst of trials and hardships, when everything was arrayed against us. He would be near unto us and would sustain us. That was His covenant, and...we can tie to the promises that He has made."

-George Q. Cannon

"When we went forth into the waters of baptism and covenanted with our Father in Heaven to serve Him and keep His commandments, He bound Himself also by covenant to us that He would never desert us, never leave us to ourselves, never forget us, that in the midst of trials and hardships, when everything was arrayed against us. He would be near unto us and would sustain us. That was His covenant, and...we can tie to the promises that He has made."

-George Q. Cannon

"When we went forth into the waters of baptism and covenanted with our Father in Heaven to serve Him and keep His commandments, He bound Himself also by covenant to us that He would never desert us, never leave us to ourselves, never forget us, that in the midst of trials and hardships, when everything was arrayed against us. He would be near unto us and would sustain us. That was His covenant, and...we can tie to the promises that He has made."

-George Q. Cannon

