

Sharing Time: October 2012

Week 3: "I can receive strengthening power through priesthood blessings."

Encourage Understanding:

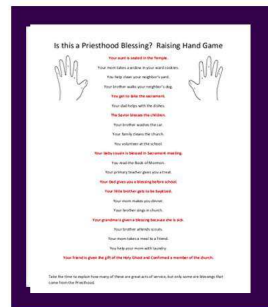

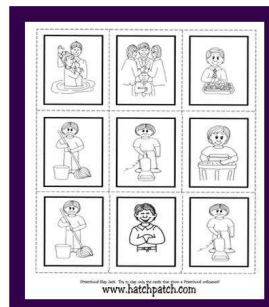

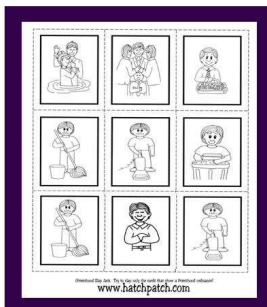

I actually liked the idea in the Sharing time Outline. I thought it would be slightly easier however, to hand out "hand cards" and let the kids put their names on them rather than trying to trace and cut out that many kids hands. Then follow the outline as listed.

Additional ideas.

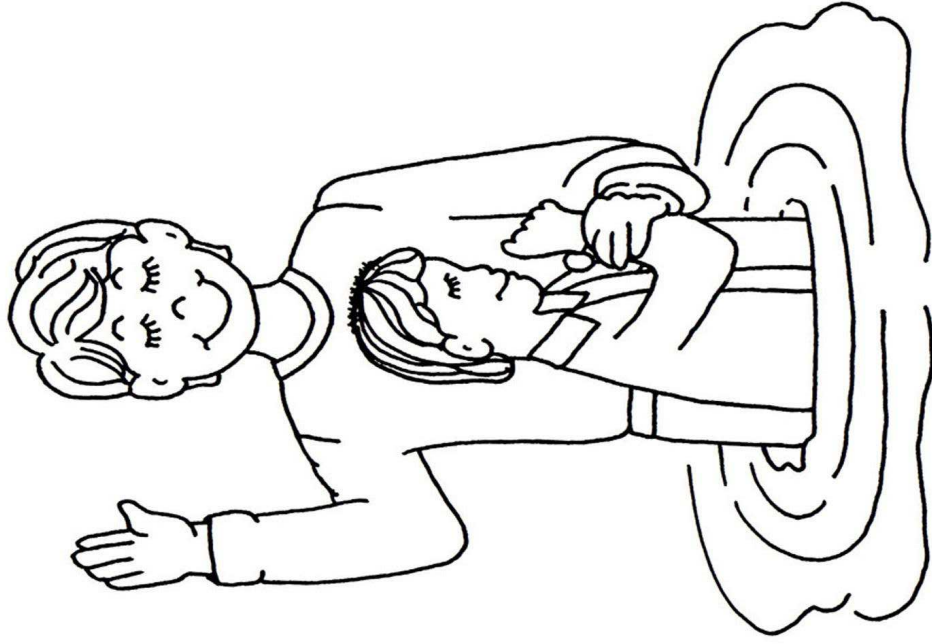

Since this activity was all about using our hands, I came up with a few additional activities you could do.

1. Read the scenario sheet. See which child can raise their hand the fastest when a scenario is read that illustrates being strengthened through the priesthood.
2. Split the kids into two groups. Call 1 from each team up at a time. Have them play slap jack with the cards enclosed. When a card comes up that illustrates the priesthood blessing that blesses someone's life see who can slap it first. You can also print the cards to give as a handout to play at home.

Pictures of Christ Question?

We often get asked why we do not have any pictures of the Savior. The church has instructed us as members not to draw cartoon images of the Savior. For this activity please bring a picture of Christ from the Gospel Art Picture Kit.

Is this a Priesthood Blessing? Raising Hand Game

Your aunt is sealed in the Temple.

Your mom takes a widow in your ward cookies.

You help clean your neighbor's yard.

Your brother walks your neighbor's dog.

You get to take the sacrament.

Your dad helps with the dishes.

The Savior blesses the children.

Your brother washes the car.

Your family cleans the church.

You volunteer at the school.

Your baby cousin is blessed in Sacrament meeting.

You read the Book of Mormon.

Your primary teacher gives you a treat.

Your Dad gives you a blessing before school.

Your little brother gets to be baptized.

Your mom makes you dinner.

Your brother sings in church.

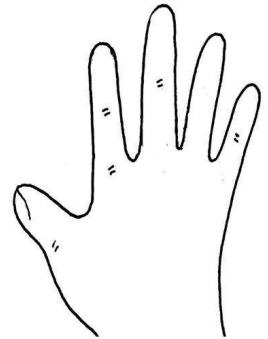

Your grandma is given a blessing because she is sick.

Your brother attends scouts.

Your mom takes a meal to a friend.

You help your mom with laundry.

Your friend is given the gift of the Holy Ghost and Confirmed a member of the church.

Take the time to explain how many of these are great acts of service, but only some are blessings that come from the Priesthood.
